

January opened the door to opportunity. This month, Macedonia2025 activated programs, platforms, and partnerships that invite businesses, talent, and the diaspora to step in - apply, participate, and help shape what comes next in 2026.

Opportunities to Learn, Lead, Mentor, and Build:

Opening Pathways for Macedonian Companies Abroad

In January, Macedonia2025 hosted a working meeting with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Directorate for Technological Industrial Development Zones to align efforts on export and investment promotion.

Stronger coordination between institutions, business, and the diaspora is essential for helping Macedonian companies access global markets and participate in international business forums.

Follow-up actions will focus on concrete support mechanisms for domestic companies abroad, leveraging diplomatic networks and diaspora connections.

Bringing Our Board and Community Together in Miami

Today, Macedonia2025 held its annual in-person Board meeting in Jupiter. Earlier this week, on 29 January, we also hosted a networking event in Miami, bringing together board members, partners, and members of the Macedonian diaspora.

In-person Board alignment strengthens strategic focus and accountability, while community networking builds trust and creates space for collaboration and new ideas across the global Macedonia2025 network.

Insights from the Board meeting will guide priorities and execution throughout 2026, while relationships formed in Miami continue to support partnerships and engagement across regions.

Insights of the Month

These insights are already being translated into action. Over the past year, Macedonia2025 has supported concrete policy recommendations and implementation in close collaboration with government institutions.

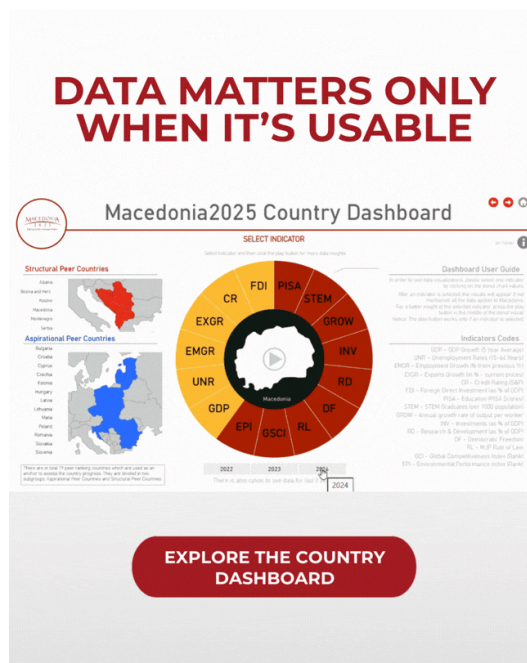

This work includes:

- digitalizing passport issuance
- contributing to the Diaspora Strategy 2026–2030
- leading the Diaspora Survey and the “Welcome Home” campaign
- initiating discussions on tax benefits for returnees

When Science Becomes a Living Experience

As part of the Science for the Future campaign, implemented with the support of Johnson Matthey, we share inspiring stories of teachers who bring science to life in the classroom.

By nurturing curiosity, critical thinking, and the courage to ask questions, these educators turn science from theory into experience - sparking early interest in STEM and shaping the scientists of tomorrow.

Macedonia has no shortage of economic data. The real challenge is context. The upgraded Country Dashboard brings fragmented indicators together, enables year-to-year tracking, and allows meaningful regional comparison.

When data is consistent, comparable, and accessible, it becomes a foundation for evidence-based dialogue - not just reporting.

PROMOTIONAL CAMPAIGN
"SCIENCE FOR THE FUTURE"

"Success doesn't come from knowing the answers, but from having the courage to ask the right questions, because every discovery begins with a curious question."
